Hello Gardening Friends,

Autumn 2021

Welcome to our 2021 Rose Catalogue!

I know I said it last year to you all in this catalogue, but really what a year it has been! I would like to say welcome to all of our new customers reading this catalogue for the first time. I know there are many who have discovered us throughout lockdowns and also many new residents to our area, having made the tree change to this truly beautiful part of Victoria. No matter how you discovered our nursery, we welcome you!

The area we live in really has a special attraction, bringing many thousands of travellers from all over Australia and overseas. Sadly, with both interstate and international border closures, many travellers were unable to visit the nursery and surrounding areas during the pandemic. The strange days throughout the year brought out the best in most people, all wanting to do the right thing by wearing masks, distancing, sanitising, and following the rules to help keep both us and you, our valued gardeners and friends, safe.

The year had many challenges in the nursery, but we were lucky to get a delivery of plastic pots from the factory in Melbourne, making their way out of the city on the last day before the lock down started and the ring of steel went up. I remember covering my hands and arms in sanitiser, wearing a mask, and carting the loads of pots to the shed where they sat, untouched for a few weeks, just to keep us all safe. No bamboo stakes as there were now obvious shortages starting to happen all over. Ink was in short supply, and after 5 hours I managed to track down a toner for the photocopier to print order forms. Even envelopes were no longer on the shelves due to the surge in demand for office supplies with everyone starting to work from home. This almost prevented the sending of last year's catalogue, but luckily I found some old envelopes in the office drawers to help get us through. Plant labels were also in high demand and the printers worked non stop trying to catch up on orders. Some plant labels that were ordered at the start of spring arrived the week before Christmas!

We have many stories to tell from the last year, as you all have, but with the help of family and friends we all got through the year and gardening was our safe place to be happy. Everyone seems to have started gardening, making spaces greener and helping heal the environment in some sort of way. A resurgence in people wanting to grow food, and a return to old ways of family and home life is just lovely to see, and something positive to come out of all this.

This year we would like to welcome my brother Brenton to the team here at Spring Park Nursery. Brenton brings not only a passion for plants and the environment, but many great skills and is a fast learner with degrees in robotics and mechatronics and software science. The new website and social platforms are a tribute to his recent work here, and we look forward to the future working together.

We would like to thank all our valued customers for all their support over the year, and we hope that you enjoy this season's winter rose catalogue. May your gardening be great gardening!

Happy Gardening!
Chris, Brenton, Ken and Dot Rae

Welcome Brenton

Spring Park Nursery Rose Cultural Notes

SITUATION

All roses grow best in a sunny, well-drained position. Roses can also be grown very well when shaded for part of the day. Roses grown in a shaded area will have a restricted amount of blooms and if the plant remains shaded and wet for long periods they are more susceptible to fungal diseases. A sheltered position from strong wind is preferred. The plant should have plenty of good air movement to help prevent mildew. Roses should have at least 5 hours of sunshine a day to perform at their best.

SOIL

Roses prefer to be grown in a medium to heavy loam about 35 cm deep with a good clay Sub soil. Clay soils can be improved by adding lots of organic matter such as well rotted manure. Gypsum can also be added to break up the clay before planting. Plants will grow in any type of soil but the more sandy the soil, less water and nutrients will be retained and should be replaced regularly, organic type fertilisers work best in this sandy soil situation.

PLANTING BARE ROOTED ROSES

Dormant roses are available during June, July and August. After purchasing your roses you should aim to plant them as soon as possible. If you cannot plant them immediately take care not to let the roots dry out. This is very important as if they become dry, the plants vigour and growth may be set back or in the worst case die. Soaking in a bucket of water and a cap full of Seasol added for a few hours before planting is also a good idea, this just helps the plant get the best start.

Dig a hole large enough to accommodate the roots of the plant comfortably so the bud union (graft) is just above the ground level. Place a mound of soil in the middle of the hole and spread the roots out over the mound. Place a light coverage of soil over the roots and we recommend that for each rose one dessert spoon full of Osmocote (8 to 9 month slow release fertiliser) be added, also a good handful of Blood 'N' Bone can be added to the remaining soil that is to be back filled into the hole. Tread the soil reasonably firmly, leaving a basin around the rose to help retain water and water in thoroughly, if you like you can add Seasol or use the bucket of soaking water.

Standard roses are planted in the same way but with a stake placed in the centre of the hole for support first. Weeping roses are grown with a pole and a rose ring for extra support.

Rock Dust is a natural fertiliser product that can be added to your soil while planting to help with soil improvement.

Do Not add other manure that is high in Nitrogen (N) such as Dynamic Lifter as this can burn the roots.

Planting your Bare Rooted Roses

Step 1: Soak your rose in Seasol.

Step 2: Select your planting site.

Step 3: Dig your hole with mound in the middle and rose graft above the soil surface.

Planting your Bare Rooted Roses

Step 4: Apply slow release fertiliser and rock dust to surrounding soil.

Step 5: Back fill soil.

Step 6: Water in well.

PLANTING YOUR POTTED ROSES

Potted roses can be purchased and planted at any time throughout the year. It is important when removing the plant from the pot not to disturb the roots, as this could cause a severe setback to the plant. Dig a hole, twice the size of the pot so that the bud union is 50mm.above the soil surface, add some slow release fertiliser to the soil, place the rose in the hole and fill with soil, water in well and finish off with a layer of mulch.

FEEDING

Roses are veracious feeders and for the best growth it is recommended that they be feed every six to eight weeks during the growing season. Vary the types of fertilisers at each application such as Blood and Bone, Organic Rose Foods, Liquid Flower and Fruit, or a Complete Rose Food, etc. In the spring we recommend that a top dressing of a complete fertiliser be worked into the soil. A good fertilising rule is to feed plants at the start of Spring Summer and Autumn.

For newly planted bare rooted roses it is recommended that you don't use pelletised animal manure for at least a few months as the fresh new roots can be burnt off and set the plant back. Water all fertilisers in well so that your plant will get the benefit and be able to absorb the fertiliser.

BLACK SPOT AND POWDERY MILDEW

These Fungal problems mainly occur during spring and autumn or when the weather is humid. They do not hurt the plant but is unsightly and in late autumn help aid the rose plant to go into dormancy.

Black Spot is a scattering of dark blotches on the leaves. Eventually leaves turn yellow and drop off. Powdery Mildew is a creamy white mould, which attacks the flower stems or leaves and buds of flowers. On the leaves white blotchy spots appear. The occurrence of both diseases is weather related. Black Spot thrives in humid, warm conditions.

Mildew usually occurs in the spring and autumn on mild days and cool moist nights. For the control of these diseases, spray with Triforine or any good black spot spray. During spring use these preventative sprays every 7 to 14 days. Lime Sulphur can be sprayed during winter dormancy as indicated on the bottle. This will help with fungal problems and will give your plants a fresh clean start in spring.

PLANTING YOUR POTTED ROSES

Step 1: Select your site for your potted rose to be planted.

Step 2: Dig hole twice as large as the pot.

Step 3: Apply fertiliser to soil.

Step 4: Place rose in the hole, backfill and water in well.

Step 5: Mulch your newly planted rose.
